TUMI's Premiere Resource

Seminary at Your Ministry

- Training indigenous leaders is the biggest challenge to world mission
- 95% of the world's pastors have no training
- Traditional options cannot meet the need
- A new paradigm is needed

Shifting the Paradigm of Formal Theological Education

The Barriers

Traditional/formal theological training:

- Expensive
- Rigid admission requirements
- Insensitive to ministry context or culture
- Requires displacement from a local church
- Inflexible to different learning styles
- Under-emphasis on ministry skills

Satellite Campus at Your Ministry

The Answer

- Systematic curriculum (Capstone Curriculum)

Testimonies

“We have witnessed amazing stories of transformation, not in the inmates’ lives, but in the prison, within inmates’ families, and in the communities where they return to upon release.”

Karen Hansen, Prison Fellowship

“TUMI has provided an opportunity for everyone to do ministry, not just paid staff. I believe this God-inspired organization has found the true concept of outreach.”

Dr. Bonita Smith
Church of God in Christ

“The Biblical principles and truths are immediately transferable to our culture. Our partnership with TUMI is training pastors and leaders for the Church.”

Pastor Alfredo Reconco, Instituto Ministerial Brazos para Amar y Restaurar Tegucigalpa, Honduras

FAQs

Q. What is the typical class length?

A. While there is flexibility in how a class is structured, most satellites have chosen to meet for eight weeks, once a week, for two hours per class.

Q. What does a typical class look like?

A. Each class engages one of the eight video teaching segments that are 30 minutes long, in addition to group discussions, prayer, and content review.

Q. What are the various requirements to complete each course (module)?

A. Each student earns points for class participation, scripture memorization, taking three quizzes and a final exam, an exegetical project, a ministry project, and engagement with reading (there are flexible ways to engage this material for low-literacy students).

Q. Does a mentor need to have formal theological training?

A. It is more important that the mentor has experience in ministry to help train other leaders out of his/her experience.
